Step 1: Have participants take turns reading portions of the bible passage out loud while the rest follow in their bibles.

Step 2: Ask participants if they don't recognize any words. Have the group figure out the definitions.

Step 3: Have one person read the entire passage out loud while the rest of the group listens (bibles closed).

Step 4a: Have different people in the group retell the passage (one paragraph, a set of verses, or one verse at a time) in their own words. Step 4b: For each section, ask the group, "What would you add? What do you see differently?"

Step 5: Use the following questions to guide discovery and application:

- What bothers you or what don't you understand about this passage? Why?

10 "Rules" for an M:28 Bible Study

Group Rules (Review as a group each time someone new joins.)

1. Everyone shares in sentences, not paragraphs (no person dominating).
2. Focus only on what this passage is saying (not other passages).
3. Focus only on what this group is seeing (not other people or materials).
4. Give people time to respond (don't be afraid of silence). (Note: Anyone can say "pass" if they don't have something to share.)
5. Facilitate, don't teach (using the Facilitator Guide). (Note: The "coach"—outsider helping to start the group—is there to help, advise outside of the group and to silently pray during the group, not lead.)

Facilitator Rules (guidelines for the facilitator)

6. Keep the session on schedule—Complete all sections if possible (Note: You may need to shorten the passage selection or have fewer people share.) Most important is the "Obey" section (encourage everyone to share).
7. Responding to questions—Ask, "What in this passage helps us answer that question?" (The goal is to help the group see that "even they" can understand the Bible) Facilitators: Don't contribute your answer/comment to every question. Let the group try to figure it out.] If the question is not about the passage, say, "Let's discuss this further after our group time..." If it is a genuine question, they will make time afterwards. If not, then it probably wasn't too important to them. If you don't know the answer and no one else does, say, "Let's do a separate study at another time on a passage that answers that question." (Then afterwards ask your coach for guidance.)
8. Distracting questions or discussions (unrelated issues or "digressions"). Ask, "Where is that found in this passage?" Or, suggest the group talk about it after the group meeting since, "The goal for today is focusing on what this passage has to say."
9. "Strange" or "wrong" interpretations: Ask the group if they see the same thing (builds a culture of self-correction). Ask the question, "Where is that found in this passage?" If this fails, suggest that you and the person or whole group talk about it after the regular meeting because, "The goal for today is focusing on what this passage has to say."
10. Close the group after the second or third week. If someone wants to bring a friend after that, help them start a new group with that friend and their friends.

Notes

- Many of the "Obey" questions are phrased "If this is true..." so that people who don't yet fully trust the Bible can participate in this Bible study process comfortably. If you know everyone in the group believes in the truth of the Bible, you could change the statement to "Since this is true..." If people are having a hard time saying what they will do differently (Obey section), you can introduce them to the SPECK tool. (Sin to repent of, Promise to embrace, Example to follow or not, Command to obey, or Knowledge to adopt).
